

Walter Reed Doctors Examine 'Blue Baby' Flown From Georgia

At the end of the line, Micky, 3-year-old "blue baby," and his mother, Mrs. Jeannette Merz of Marion, Ill., say good-by to Capt. Robert Webster, C-54 pilot, at Bolling Air Force Base.

After the biggest buggy ride he'd ever had—a C-54 trip from Georgia to Bolling Air Force Base—Micky, a 3-year-old "blue baby," is being examined today by doctors at Walter Reed Hospital.

The big-eyed child and his mother, Mrs. Jeannette Merz of Marion, Ill., arrived here yesterday on a specially arranged flight.

Faced with no money for her child's treatment, and with her husband, Sergt. Howard Merz, stationed in Tokyo, Mrs. Merz said she wrote a letter telling a Marion newspaper publisher about her predicament.

Harvard Receives 8 Million From Inventor's Estate

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 4. Harvard University has been given $8,626,506 from the estate of an inventor who never went to college.

Trustees of the Gordon McKay estate made the gift last night—bringing to $15,766,755 the amount received toward an endowment set up 40 years ago to promote "applied science."

Mr. McKay, a self-taught civil engineer who began as a railroad machinist in Massachusetts, was the inventor of the McKay shoe sewing machine. He died in 1903—leaving instructions that the income from his estate go to Harvard.

ident, announced at the same time other gifts during the last four months totaled $1,342,797—$1,191,618 for immediate use, $151,179 for capital.

Hard Study to Learn New Trade Lands Ex-Convict Back in Jail

By the Associated Press
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 4.—An ex-convict mediated in jail today on the disheartening aspects of studying hard to learn a trade.

His trade, Jack Doyle told police yesterday, is safe cracking. The police acknowledge he's an expert.

Doyle, 24, said that after being released from the Missouri State Prison last May he decided to study hard and learn more about it.

This, Doyle said, is how he gained his education:
He took notes and memorized details of specifications for strong boxes at the Patent Office in Washington. Then, posing as a businessman, he took refresher courses from safe manufacturers.

Finally he studied law, learning safecrackers using explosives are open to stiffer penalties than those who don't.

He decided to use the peeling technique. It's a quiet method of removing steel plates with a crowbar and blow torch, Doyle explained.

Police said he began his career last July. They credit him with 35 jobs since then in the St. Louis area.

Doyle's non-explosive technique blew up Sunday.

Officers found him in a closed tavern after a tip from the owner and clipped his budding career.

He was booked on suspicion of burglary and larceny.

Yeggs Rip Off Safe Door, Rob Firm Here of $646

Police today were seeking thieves who entered the office of the McNulty Bros. Co., 616 Rhode Island avenue N.E., and took $646 in cash from a 6-foot-high safe.

The theft, police said, occurred sometime early yesterday. A side window to the building had been jimmied open and the safe door ripped off by the thieves. The safe weighs more than a ton, a company official said, and the cash was being kept in a small box, which also is missing.
